I Present You with the Ultimate Anti-Virus Software

If you're anything like me, you're not happy with your anti-virus software, and I'm sure we're not alone. It got me thinking "how can companies get this simple product so wrong?", so I decided to dig deep to figure out why I wasn't happy.

Sure, they all have the same minor problems, whether it's surprise subscription fees, annoying alerts, or high computer usage, but we can get past those. The real problem is that every anti-virus software only offers the same features – they detect and eliminate harmful viruses, and some even make your computer faster, but they're all missing one thing:

None of them let me fuck my dad.

At this time, you can't find a single anti-virus software that will let you have sex with your own father. That's an indisputable fact, and a shocking one at that. Seeing this tremendous gap in potential, and my high demand for it, I've invented an anti-virus software that not only rids your computer of unwanted files, but also both legally and socially allows you to have sexual intercourse with your dad.

Let me explain how it works.

To start, simply click the aptly named "Start Scan" button. This will initiate the system to scan your computer, ensuring any unwanted files are located and removed. The job is done within three minutes, and runs in the background so no annoying alerts pop-up until the scan is absolutely done.

It's as simple as that. There's no hassle and no fuss, plus it'll even give you an analysis on other ways you can speed up your computer, such as removing unused programs, or consolidating your files and folders.

Next, your email contacts will be automatically imported into the system from your Gmail, Outlook, or other email provider. At that time, the system will send our irreversible template email that notifies all your friends and family that both you and your father are in a sexual relationship. That will ensure that no loved ones think an awful, non-consensual, incestual relationship is going on between you and your father. With this feature, you and your family can sleep tight knowing that you and your father are in a consensual, incestual relationship.

But that's not all.

My program will instantly file an emancipation form in your name, legally emancipating you from your father, ensuring that you and your dad can have sex freely without violating any state or national law.

As simply as that, every single aspect of your computer's protection is taken care of.

I know what you're thinking: "Thank you."

And what I'm saying? "You're welcome."

At the end of the day, I'm no different than you. I like my computer to run quickly, and I like having intercourse with my own father. Let me help you make that journey.

To order, send a $300 cashier's check to the Shakey's Pizza Parlor on La Brea (I'm the manager). Limited to one order per Dad.

I'm Enlisting a Team of Heroes to Save the World

Yet again, the world is in danger from one of Dark Sage's evil plots, but this time I'm the only one who knows about it. Finally, it's up to me to build a force strong enough to defeat him.

This gives me a real opportunity to shine in Globocity. After I pull this off, people will never again be able claim that I'm a lousy hero, a dirtbag, or that I owe them money. I'm really going to have to thank Dark Sage after all this, even though he'll probably be mad at me. Not that he'll matter after I have millions of new fans.

Now to choose my team:

I've already picked Mole Man, since I owe him a favor, and this one guy, Jared, since he knows I.T. and I really need my computer fixed. I figure he should be on the team so I can casually ask him to fix my computer. I'll tell him we need the computer for the mission so he doesn't charge me. If he does charge me, I'll find a way to kick him off the team. We wouldn't want someone stingy on the team anyway.

That makes three of us, but I don't think that'll be enough to take on Dark Sage, so I'll have to keep looking. I wish it could just be the three of us, but, honestly, they're pretty bad heroes. Jared isn't technically a hero at all, and Mole Man is only good at digging.

To even things out I need someone who can do most of the work for me. I thought about calling Alphaman, since he's invincible and super strong, but he's taller than me. I mean, much taller than me. I'd literally be overshadowed by him, and people will probably assume it was him who put the team together. I'm the only one who knows about Dark Sage's plan to destroy the world, so I deserve to look good for this, or what's the point?

There's always Alphagirl. But is she too tall as well? She isn't taller than me, but she's pretty close. That might make me look lame and I want to look like the coolest one in the newspaper photo. I'm going to wear a Kangol hat. Maybe not while I'm fighting, but at least for the picture. People who see the picture will think I wore it during the battle, which is cool.

The next strongest hero would be Lizard Lightning. He could make easy work out of Dark Sage, but, then again, he's always flapping his tongue around and hissing. I don't know how long I could handle that, and the mission would last at least an hour, best case scenario. If I have to listen to him lick and hiss for an hour, I'll destroy the world myself.

I could invite him and his side-kick. That would make the mission much quicker, but those two together are the worst. They never want to talk about anything interesting. They're always so wrapped up in their commands and strategy talk in the middle of battle. It's like they don't know how to have fun on the job. I'd like to make this mission fun. I want people to look back, even if we lose, and say, "Hey. That was a fun one, wasn't it?"

That's why I'll probably bring on Rosco the Clown. Like I.T. guy Jared, he's not a superhero, but he can be pretty funny when he does this one thing that he did that one time. I forgot what it was, or if it was even Rosco who did it, but I'm sure Rosco can do something pretty funny.

I could always go with The Magnificent Seven. With all Seven of them we'd easily defeat Dark Sage, but I hear they like to go to Barry's Bar and Grill after winning a mission and I hate that place. The fries are awful, plus they won't let me in anymore after my last visit. Hey, I'm not the villain here.

I'd better not call them at all. There's no way I'm wasting my night at Barry's Bar and Grill.

I know who I'll call! Savage Wolf.

He's a villain, but I've always thought he was pretty cool and wanted a chance to hang out with him. I think I could get him, but I'll have to take Mole Man off the team, since Savage Wolf vowed to kill him. It's probably a good idea to take Mole Man out altogether since no one really likes him, not even me really.

That leaves four of us, but we could really use a 5th, especially since Jared and Rosco probably won't fight and I could see Savage Wolf double crossing me. We need a ringer. I mean someone really solid. Someone who isn't incompetent, a villain, or me.

Iron Clasp – Too much of a showboat. He'd take all the credit. Pass.

Murphy Law – I hate his name. Pass.

Solar Ray – He does that one really awful Australian accent at parties that everyone loves. I hate it. Pass.

Arrow Black – Doesn't like me. Pass.

Infinite Armor – Doesn't like me. Pass.

Fallon Hawk – Doesn't like me. Pass.

Blare Armor – I don't like him. Plus, he doesn't like me. Pass.

Nimble Blade – I think I dated his sister, but I'm not sure. Pass.

Esterio – I think Esterio would be good, but I haven't really hung out with him before, so I'd rather do a quick hangout before I invite him. Pass.

Dark Sage – He’s the guy we’re fighting. Pass.

That’s just about everybody.

You know what? Dark Sage isn’t actually that powerful. He’ll probably fail. I’ll just wait until, like, 12 p.m. tomorrow and see what’s going on. It’ll probably be fine.
